GTS UC-One Communication is an application for unified communication. It includes an IP telephony and videotelephony client, user availability, and messaging. GTS UC-One Communicator (unified communication and IM&P) operates in the iOS system with Internet access. It is connected to the T-mobile virtual PBX platform and supports different types of calls. Users have continuous access to the directory of contacts and can see the availability status of their colleagues. The end user interface allows for easily making and receiving calls and videocalls and sending quick messages. The directory of contacts is ideally suited for easy launch of multimedia communication and it intuitively supports the user in effective and frequent communication.
